

Boris Cheshirkov holds an MA in International Relations, University of Economics, Sofia. He has worked for Bulgarian Foreign Service as a diplomat for the period 1972 – 1993.

He has 18 years of extensive experience in asylum and migration matters, as most of that time he has dedicated to the development of the national system for refugee protection.

1993 – 2006 he has worked as Head of International Affairs Directorate at the State Agency for Refugees with the Council of Ministers. He has contributed to the preparation of the English version of UNHCR's publication "Refugee protection and integration in Bulgaria 2004 – 2005".

In 2007 he joined the "Association for integration of refugees and migrants". Currently he works as Project Manager of AIRM and in this capacity he was the national coordinator for "Migrants Rights and Integration Project: from practice to policy". He has contributed to the development of MRIP Toolkit "Working on integration at local level" by preparing the Bulgarian section "Working to influence public perceptions of immigrants".

Boris Cheshirkov is fluent in English, Russian and Greek. He has designed and maintains AIRM's website <http://www.airm-bg.org> .